TOUR · PROBLEM

Foreign travelers in Korea hit three walls

1

Where to go?

No tourist map lets unplanned visitors choose at a glance. Information is scattered across lists and articles

2

Map apps are hard

Naver and Kakao maps are accurate but Korean-centric. Google Maps has limited directions in Korea

3

Language barrier

A word of Korean can stall things at restaurants, taxis and pharmacies. Finding care in a hurry is hard

8 in 10 inbound visitors travel independently, without a guide (80.5% in 2024)

TOUR · SOLUTION

Illustrated Tour App + AI guide

1

See and choose

Tap a drawing on the hand-drawn map for details, distance from you and transport

2

Ask the AI

Type "I want to see hanok" for picks, then daily itineraries and restaurants from saved places

3

Help when stuck

Show a Korean screen, interpret, find nearby hospitals and pharmacies

Four differences from regular map apps

1 Hand-drawn tourist maps

Attractions are drawn as art. The map is the guidebook — you see where to go at a glance

2 AI picks · Trip planner

One sentence gets picks, then daily plans, routes and restaurants from your lodging. PDF and sharing

3 6 languages

Korean, English, Japanese, Chinese (Simplified, Traditional), Spanish. Screens and AI answers follow your choice

4 Built for foreigners

🌐 Korean-screen button, interpreting, emergency care, agency and day-tour links, hand-off to Naver and Google Maps

Billboards move with the map

They stay in place on zoom and pan, and video plays only on that map — the map is never blocked

TOUR · COMPETITION

Others do directions and booking; we do "where to go"

Service	Strength	Gap for foreign travelers
VISITKOREA (Korea Tourism Organization)	Official tourist info, multi-language	List and search — choosing and planning is left to the visitor
Naver Map	Most accurate roads and transit	Shop info and reviews mostly in Korean
KakaoMap	Korean directions and place info	Centered on Korean speakers
Google Maps	Familiar to foreigners	Limited directions in Korea
Klook · GetYourGuide	Tour and ticket booking	No on-site maps, directions or local info

Us: choose on the illustrated map and plan the day with AI, then go straight to Naver or Google Maps for directions and Klook or GetYourGuide for booking
